Review of: "Reconfigurable Intelligent Surface Constructing 6G Near-field Networks"

Marcelo S. Alencar[1]

1 Universidade Federal de Campina Grande

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper presents an overview of near-field principles and an examination of the latest advancements in reconfigurable intelligent surface (RIS)-driven near-field technologies. The text has no mathematics whatsoever and introduces the subject in a descriptively simple manner. The addition of formulas would make the text more concise and interesting for scientists in the area.