

Review of: "Factors contributing to labour unrest at the garment factories in Bangladesh: A cross-sectional study"

Dr. Hardeep Rai Sharma¹

¹ Kurukshetra University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Factors contributing to labour unrest at the garment factories in Bangladesh: A cross-sectional study is a good work by the authors. However authors can take care of references support, usually 3-4 references could be enough to support the data or facts. Research papers do not have a separate section of literature review, better to delete. In Table 3, instead of using word "Sex" better to write "Gender". In Table 3 better to mention wages in Dollars. In Table 3 also add work experience and about literacy. Better not to use common words "Jhut business". A grammatical error like "shot" in discussion needs to be rectify. Better to arrange unrest episodes in Bangladesh in chronological order as year wise. References need proper attention while writing in reference section.