

Review of: "International Clinicians and Academics Supporting the Refugee Journey- A Personal Experience and Perspective"

Prof. Ihab Sawalha¹

¹ American University of Madaba

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

As I mentioned in my previous review, the article has improved significantly. The author's own experience is evident throughout the paper, which provides constructive practical input and insight. The inclusion of sustainability and the sustainable development goals was an added value to the paper. The paper is clear in terms of language and is very interesting to read. It is very informative and sheds light on the significance of the inclusion and the integration of personal experiences into the academic discourse. The argument is clear and the involvement of the potentially various parties was explained, evident and justified. Good luck for the author in his future research. I support the final publication of the article.

What distinguishes this article in particular is the author's own practical experience and in-depth knowledge in the field, which reflects significantly on actual practice. That is mainly why I support the final publication of the article. The clarification on the stakeholders' involvement is also significant. Good luck.