Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

It seems evident that audiovisual material is shared to a greater extent with the device most used by users of Information and Communication Technologies. Both harmful and non-harmful material, therefore it is evident what we want to demonstrate.

It should be taken into account that the media publish news with an informative bias. Contrast should be sought in any research.

The empirical study should have a greater development, in order to consolidate the results obtained or to include nuances with more innovative working hypotheses.

Otherwise, the feeling is that an empirical study is adapted to preconceived conclusions prior to the beginning of the research.
