

Review of: "A Review of Prosody, Punctuation, and Dyslexia: Implications for the Use of Speech Technologies"

JULIA AI CHENG LEE<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Universiti Malaysia Sarawak

Potential competing interests: The author(s) declared that no potential competing interests exist.

Thank you for the opportunity to review this manuscript on "A review prosody, punctuation, and dyslexia: Implication for the use of speech technologies."

It is a timely "review" topic. The implications from the review and ideas for future direction are important contributions to the field. I suggest that the author improve on the review procedure. Is this a comprehensive review? Comprehensive reviews, although not as stringent as systematic reviews, require some information on the keyword search. Without this kind of information, it is unclear how the author found the articles and whether it was just a cursory search. Thus, it is likely that a more exhaustive search is required. It is important to inform the readers what kinds of literature were included in the "review."

It is also important to include how many speech technology products are available on prosody, punctuation, and dyslexia so far so that readers are more aware of the state-of-the-art.