This is an interesting research that can be improved

An investigation should be written in the third person.

Besides, in the introduction should present the topic in a clear and concise manner, justifying the study, explaining why it is important. Likewise, summarize the existing literature on the subject to raise questions or hypotheses that are addressed in the research and thus indicate the objectives and methodology of the research to present the results. On the other hand, consider the appropriate use of verb tenses according to the structure of the research.
