

Review of: "Facilitating Global Leadership Competencies of Tenured Faculty Members to Offer International Engineering Programs"

Kamalaveni M.s.¹

¹ Sona College of Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper focuses on diverse global faculty members undertaking consultancy projects under several IDAs and the Indian Corporate Sector, and the need for establishing branch campuses in overseas countries. The study signifies the importance of training and developing tenured faculty to plan and implement global programs for facilitating leadership competencies, and also lists out some of the new roles of college principals/directors/presidents and the challenges which clearly describe the present scenario in higher education, which is really appreciated.