The research idea is interesting, but some notes should be taken into consideration:

1. The way the document is written does not fit the standards of writing an academic article.
2. The introduction and conclusion are absent from the abstract.
3. There is no comparison between the current study and previous studies.
4. The results of the study provided should be compared with those of other similar studies in the discussion part to ascertain the work's shortcomings and accomplishments.
5. More detail needs to be added to the introduction.
