This is an interesting paper and the content is very good, but I suggest the paper can be improved in the following ways:
Abstract - Please modify the headlines based on the format of the journal. - In the conclusion part, it is necessary to specify the researcher's proposal to improve the conditions and use of the beneficiaries.
Introduction Please bring the following items
1- Definition of the research problem
2- The magnitude and importance of the study variable
3- Bringing the variable epidemiology information of the study at the world level and the place of study
4- Bringing theoretical knowledge about the importance of studying
5- Expressing the necessity of conducting the study
Finally, the practical purpose of the study should be stated.
Methods Discussion In the discussion section, it is necessary to compare the main results of the study with the results of other studies in this field. What are the strengths and limitations of the study?

Best regards,
