

Review of: "Understanding the Patterns of Hate Incidents and Reporting Attitudes at a UK University"

Mohamed G. Hussein¹

¹ Taif University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Comments on the manuscript entitled ‘Understanding Patterns of Hate Incidents and Reporting Attitudes at a UK University’

Thank you for the opportunity to read and revise this interesting paper. The author(s) explore an interesting and actual topic, which is Understanding Patterns of Hate Incidents and Reporting Attitudes at a UK University.

The paper results clear and extensively cover the topic, albeit the interesting topic and the significance of the results, there are some observations, which are as follows:

1. Please reformulate the abstract by adding the significance of the study, the gap in the literature, and how your research contributes to filling that gap.
2. The literature did not address the importance of the study.
3. It is necessary to present the most important results in the abstract.
4. The problem of the study needs to be further supported by referring to studies and research that dealt with the subject.
5. Highlight previous studies, whether in the introduction to the research, its problem, or in the research literature, by utilizing them well.
6. Add line numbers.
7. Before the conclusion, write separate paragraphs for the limitations of this research and the future research direction that might add more academic value.
8. The necessity of having recommendations in a separate title in the study.

I hope my suggestions could help strengthen your paper. Thank you again for the opportunity to read and revise it.