

Review of: "American Institutional Stereotypes: A Pilot Investigation of Factor Structure"

Julia Szőke¹

¹ Séchenyi István University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The authors examined an interesting theme and their research findings are noteworthy for the representatives of all investigated institutions/fields. The research methods they used to find out more about the American institutional stereotypes are appropriate for the purposes of the research, moreover, they are of high quality. The discussion of the findings is adequate and the conclusions are of importance. The paper as well as the research meets academic and scientific requirements, thus it is considered appropriate for publication.