The topic of the work is interesting, but the work needs certain improvements. Below are some of them.

- An additional language check is required.
- The Abstract and Introduction need to be refined. They usually contain: an introduction to the problem, the importance of the problem from the related literature, the goal of the paper, the novelty of the paper, the proposed approach, and principal results.
- The applied methodology needs to be described sufficiently. It would be good to present a methodological framework or flow chart within which the research steps and scientific methods will be presented. In addition, the methods used should be explained; this especially refers to the application and development of the survey questionnaire.
- The performed data analysis is very weak; only basic descriptive statistics were used. Statistical analysis and results can be strengthened using inferential statistics.
- Certain results can also be displayed graphically.
- What are the limitations of this research?
- A conclusion chapter needs to be included.
- References should be expanded with additional titles.
