

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Cerebrospinal Fluid Diversion

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Cerebrospinal Fluid Diversion. NCI Thesaurus. Code C93208.

A therapeutic procedure used to drain excessive fluid from the central nervous system. It involves the placement of a shunt in a ventricle of the brain that is threaded under the skin to another part of the body.