

Review of: "Attitude towards business activity risk: evidence using logit models for two groups of OECD countries"

Zouhour EL-Abiad¹

¹ Lebanese University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic is relevant because we need to have more knowledge on the attitude towards business activity risk and to understand differences between countries.

Despite the academic contribution of this study, it has several limitations :

- the empirical study based on a period of 15 years, from 2001 till 2016, needs to be updated. In case, it is impossible to make this adjustment, at least authors could indicate on this aspect as one of the principal limitation of the study;
- the references used by authors need to be updated. It will be preferable to integrate more studies from years 2019, 2020, 2021, 2022, 2023;
- the article structure has to be change, in a way to present a separate section for literature review. As we notice, literature review is only discussed within the introduction part;
- the conclusion is well presented but it will be more valuable to treat the managerial implications of this study.