Reforestation was, and is, and must be conducted by the government and supported by all elements of the nation. The author may see and read the reforestation programme in Gunung Kidul region of Yogyakarta Province of Indonesia to add the minimum references quoted in the paper. (<https://archive.aessweb.com/index.php/5005/article/view/1781>).

The paper has been written and arranged in semi-popular style. It is easy to understand, and nice to read, and furnished with some interesting figures. To upgrade to be scientific paper, rearrange the structure of paper as the standard of paper in a scientific journal, consisting of from the abstract up to list of references. Give detailed description of the figures as the analysis of the condition illustrated by the figures. Add tables of statistical data of critical land, or data of the extinct species of plants. These data will describe the important reforestation must be applied ASAP. So that the paper will be no more easy to read by common readers but become interested for scientists.
