The manuscript is about the one of the important challenges which is faced on the daily basis. The problem is of importance but there are multiple issues which should be addressed and are as follows:

1. Novelty of the work: The novelty of the system is questionable as this work is an combination of already developed system.
2. This work does not provide any literature on existing works and how this method is better.
3. A detailed evaluation and comparison might help in overall improvement of the manuscript.
4. The manuscript revolves around how a passenger suffers from the arrival delay of buses. This has been mentioned many times in the manuscript which must be avoided.
