

Review of: "Analyzing Students' Perceptions of Collaborative Tools for Automated Assessment of Programming Assignments in Distance Education"

Saima Siraj<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Quaid-e-Awam University of Engineering, Science and Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The quality of the paper is good, but some improvements will make it better.

1. Improve the quality of Figure 2.
2. Table 4. Graphical representation of participants' confusion at this place - recheck either the figure or the table. It seems to be a figure.
3. Table captions should be above the tables.
4. Table 7 seems to be a figure.
5. Strictly monitor the tables and figures.
6. Precise the conclusion.