

Review of: "Improving agriculture and food security in Africa: Can the one health approach be the answer?"

Wei Song<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Institute of Geographic Sciences and Natural Resources Research, Chinese Academy of Sciences

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This review explored one health as a holistic approach in contributing to improved food security and sustainable food systems in African agriculture. I very much agree with many of the views mentioned in the paper. But there are still some problems in this paper.

My suggestions are as follows:

1. Add the method section. How did the author systematically review the research results of this paper?
2. In the introduction, it further elaborates the research background, significance and innovation of this paper.
3. Add a discussion section to specify how Africa can achieve food security through the "one health approach" in the future. I think the suggestions in this paper are not specific enough.
4. I think the author should add more data in the paper. This can increase the credibility of many arguments of the paper.