Dear Editorial Board, Dear Authors,

Thank you for the opportunity to learn about an interesting solution to an important topic, "Startup Project Development - Triplanner".

The solution procedure is popularizing and practical. It would be appropriate to add a more rigorous solution so that there is a theoretical and methodological contribution. Would it be appropriate to use a suitable research method to objectify the conclusions (e.g. ROI estimate is 120% - how was this value arrived at)? Furthermore, it is advisable to supplement the article with a clearly defined research objective and an exact methodological description.

Best regards,
reviewer
