

Review of: "Palm Oil Expansion and Subnational Food Security"

Yadeta Bedasa

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

From beginning to end, the author(s) explained the scope, originality, and significance of the study are done effectively in the introduction section. The title and abstract fully represent the article. The purpose of the study was detailed and well-explained.

The current state of knowledge on this subject is briefly discussed with appropriate references. In this manuscripts literature review section, relevant ideas for the inquiry are precisely defined. The content in this article is excellent, clear, and simple to grasp.

The authors provide a detailed explanation of the data collection and analysis procedures. The analysis can be repeated with the information the authors have provided. The methods and materials clearly include a description of all the study populations, materials, processes, assumptions, and definitions used in the study, as well as all equations, methods, techniques, and measurements. The conclusion is directly related to the main objective. And the benefits of research to society were clearly emphasized.