

Review of: "Digital Literacy in People with Disabilities: An Overview and Narrative Review"

Hina Amin<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Virtual University of Pakistan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This paper provides a significant contribution in the field of digital literacy with respect to PWDs. Significant research is added to support the argument. The article objectives and introduction are clear and provide a comprehensive picture to the readers. Appropriate methodology is used for the current study. However, there is a need to add updated references when describing the types of disabilities as researchers referred back to 2004. Future directions are important for policymakers and practitioners.