

Review of: "The Ancient Indian Knowledge System and the Medical Sciences"

Ehsan Ali<sup>1</sup>

<sup>1</sup> Bahauddin Zakariya University, Multan

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic reviewed in the article is highly relevant and important too but the major revisions are required before publication.

1. Abstract should be organized as background, aim of study, methods, findings and conclusion.
2. 4-5 Keywords will be added after abstract.
3. Limited number of articles reviewed by the author for the preparation of this manuscript. Therefore, should be reviewed more relevant articles.
4. At least more than 50 references should be used in this review paper to enhance the accuracy of the information.
5. Method section should be included after introduction portion.