The author wrote a mini-review entitled "The Global Impact on Health of Dental Infections and Antibiotic Resistance: A Mini-Review" regarding the often improper use of antibiotics, which leads to the development of antibiotic resistance. I think it is right to raise awareness among both healthcare workers and patients about the correct use of antibiotics. The mini-review is well-written; however, I think it is redundant in some parts. Specifically, in the lines "Dental infections are a serious global health concern...dental infections." This part should be reformulated, in my opinion.

I also suggest creating a "Conclusion" section within the text to better explain the purpose of the mini-review and the suggestions to be applied by healthcare professionals.
