An interesting study with some potentially valuable findings, however The framework and presentation would benefit from some rearranging. It's not clear from your introduction what your hypotheses are, as a result your results are over detailed as you appear to have compared every variable to every other variable. You would be better here to refine your questions and present results based on this. I would also suggest that it would be worth using some regression modelling to explore the additive role of multiple technologies, e.g. is there a difference between devices used and is this relationship cumulative. (for example if I use both a laptop and a mobile phone would my results be different to just using one of these technologies?) this would then lead to clearer findings in your discussion section. Here you should also link back to some of the points raised in your introduction and develop some clearer implications for practice. With some reworking this will make a good article.
