

Review of: "AI in Court: Facing Today's Legal Challenges"

Michele De Padova

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The proposed topic is interesting. However, the essay is descriptive and does not aim at a specific topic, but at different subject matters.

The examined themes should be explored in greater depth with more real examples in order to arouse the reader's curiosity.

The essay remains general with respect to the topics covered without going into detail.

Some topics are redundant and are repeated in multiple paragraphs.

The structure of this essay is too complex. Some paragraphs could be deleted and integrated with others.

Some photos and graphics could make the article more appealing.

The essay is an excellent basis for future ones.
