Dear Editor

The article "Recent Trends and Techniques in Landslide Hazard Assessment" is a review paper presenting the previous works done in the field of landslide hazard assessment in India. The abstract can be written better by adding more about the main important takeaway from the review done on this topic. More recent studies can be added to the review study. Since it is a review study, more papers can be added to the article. Conclusions can be drafted better, highlighting the important summary of the study done and adding new insights from the authors' side.
