The article is a good article that covers a related topic. But a few areas need renovation.

Abbreviations such as ESP and EFL must appear in their long form in the title and abstract, not as abbreviations.

The abstract is short, and the introduction and Literature Review need to be more detailed and up-to-date.

The basic problem statements and what exactly will be done in the study are not clearly stated in the article, or I did not fully understand them.

Recent citations barely appear in the article. It would be more useful to add more up-to-date resources from 2020 and beyond.

Justifications for why it was done with 20 people should be provided, and concrete suggestions for other workers should be listed.

Overall, it can be considered a good article and could be published as a stronger article with these and similar recommendations.
