I appreciate your efforts to address safety and livability in our cities in the manuscript. After reviewing the manuscript, I propose several revisions.

The introduction needs to be condensed. Additionally, the objectives, methods, and results require further elucidation. The excessive use of subheadings might hinder comprehension, leading to poor cohesion. Hence, eliminating unnecessary headings is recommended. Although the manuscript aims to conduct a comparative study, it falls short in addressing the qualities of safety and livability in the case studies. Therefore, it is crucial to integrate these aspects for a more comprehensive analysis.

The references need updating. Recent years have witnessed extensive research on CPTED, so citing recent studies is essential for the manuscript's credibility and relevance.
