

Review of: "Knowledge, Practices and Attitude of Residents towards Buruli Ulcer in Jasikan Municipality: An Ethnographic Study"

Ushnish Guha¹

¹ Visva-Bharati University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The conceptualization of the study in question is well formulated. There are some points of feedback:

The disease might be endemic to some specific regions thus if the disease profile can be systematically described.

The methodology requires slight clarity regarding how the sample size of 20 was calculated. Also, was 20 the minimum representative sample size and/or the working sample size

For the future, KAP studies can be conducted with a mixed methods study design, and integrated findings for increasing rigour representativeness.

Thanks!