

Review of: "Enhancing Academic Speaking Skills: An Immersive Virtual World Approach"

Stella Hadjistassou¹

¹ Arizona State University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is indeed a very interesting and timely article. It addresses some of the most challenging areas that learners of English face and demonstrates how Virtual Reality can be effectively deployed to achieve this goal. The article does not focus on simply technology but on how it can form a vehicle, if deployed effectively, to mediate learning experiences. The pedagogical value and potential for integrating VR into the second/foreign language context is clearly demonstrated.