

Review of: "Conflict Resolution Applications to Peace Studies"

Laetitia Petersen¹

¹ University of Witwatersrand

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Thank you for the honor of reviewing this article.

The author is commended for the effective imageries that were created of conflict and peace.

The timing of the article is very apt, considering the need for conflict resolution and peacekeeping in our current times. Therefore, the article fulfills a clear niche. The article serves as a useful guide for dealing with conflict by fostering and encouraging transformative resolution.

Some suggestions are that perhaps this should not be listed as a study but rather as an article or a review or reflections about conflict resolution. By indicating that it is a study, one would expect methodology and the actual implementation of research. Research also does not set out to empower but to explore, describe, and explain. It is the information from research in article format that empowers. Rephrasing and some reorganization are therefore required. The information under the literature review should be incorporated with the theoretical underpinnings of conflict resolution, as essentially this entire article (up to the discussion) is a literature review. The review and reflections of the strategies and models are of great value and worth being considered for publication. The recommendations may be strengthened.

The author is wished well with the adjustments.