

Review of: "The Stay-Or-Leave Dilemma of Cells in Punctuated Tumors"

Silvia Lonardi¹

¹ University of Brescia

Potential competing interests: no competing interests to declare

Original and interesting hypothesis. However, it does not take into account the immune infiltrate at the tumor border, which represents a microenvironment not necessarily favorable to the relaxation of the tumor cell. So, for disclosure, I would have chosen a more appropriate histological image with an active tumor at the edge and a necrotic center without showing a substantial inflammatory infiltrate.