Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The abstract does not present the study method to answer the objectives, study results and implications
2. The paragraph does not begin with an image, the image is presented below the initial paragraph
3. Image source is presented if adapted
4. The beginning of the sentence should not be a question
5. Reference citations are presented in the body of the article for each sentence or statement obtained from the adaptation
6. The study objectives and methods are presented in a special sub-chapter
7. The discussion is too short and less proportional than the description of the results. The discussion is sharpened according to the study objectives by comparing previous research, implications of study results, and recommendations
