

Review of: "Socio-cultural factors influencing women empowerment: A cross-sectional study among an ex-criminal tribe in West Bengal, India"

Jude Cocodia¹

¹ Niger Delta University

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Review Report QEIOS

The article is good and really insightful. It is necessary at this stage of the world's development and awareness to gender sensitive issues. However, the author should avoid such general statements as contained in the very first line of the Abstract, which is: "A society cannot develop without women's equal participation in the decision-making process within the family as well as in the society." This assertion is too generic and untrue. The world has undergone tremendous economic and political revolutions in the past 400 years, and women were hardly a part of this. For a political science paper therefore, the use of such general assertions should be checked/limited.