1. The paper doesn't explain well how they actually put WordPress in Docker. Readers need a clear guide to understand the process.

2. They don't talk about how this method compares to others. It would help readers see its benefits if they explained that.

3. While they say WordPress in Docker is scalable, they don't give any numbers to prove it. Adding some data would make their argument stronger.

4. They mention security, but they don't explain how they make WordPress safer in Docker. We need more detail on what they're doing to keep it secure.
