I would like to say that the research has moved to a good level, especially in the practical part. I have simple observations,

1. Adding a table at the end of the theoretical part under the title ( theoretical framework ), which includes the variables on which the research depends in measurement.
2. The research needs to add a part (research method) It includes an explanation of the research methodology and measurement method used in the practical part. I suggest moving paragraph 4.1.2 to this part (research method)
