

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Lymphomatoid papulosis

INSERM

Source

INSERM. (1999). Orphanet: an online rare disease and orphan drug data base.

Lymphomatoid papulosis. ORPHA:98842

Lymphomatoid papulosis (LyP) is a rare cutaneous condition characterized by chronic, recurrent, and self-regressing papulonodular skin eruptions. It belongs to the spectrum of primary cutaneous CD30+ lymphoproliferative disorders, along with primary cutaneous anaplastic large cell lymphoma (primary C-ALCL; see this term) with which it shares overlapping clinical and histopathologic features.