Review of: "Product of Distributions Applied to Discrete Differential Geometry"

Qiang Xi

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The paper proposes a formula for calculating the product of step discontinuous functions and delta functions, which is well written and has some innovation. However, the paper needs to cite more references and enrich some examples.