

Review of: "Alcohol Consumption in Ancient India and the Contemporary Challenges: A Study of Socio-Economic Implications and Anti-Liquor Protests in Tamil Nadu"

Dr.T Amose¹

¹ The American College, Madurai

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

1. The author has done a congratulatory work. Especially, the study drawn from ancient information to the present was very interesting and the way the author presented was also highly appreciable.
2. Literature review given in the part of methodology has a number of related sources but, it would be highly identified if it consists of a total number of related studies reviewed.
3. Also the sampling technique, distribution and size of primary data are missing in the part of data collection.
4. The author has given a long list of the study's objectives. If it is given a minimum number, it will be a good piece of work for reading and understanding.
5. Instead of giving limitations in the part methodology, the author being suggested to keep after the conclusion for the worth of work. Other wise, for any readers, limitations will be at the mind from the beginning of reading the major part of work that possible to make less interest and observations.
6. The study shows a piece of knowledge from traditional to current plight in understanding alcohol consumption among people.
7. The entire work was so informative but, as per the part of methodology the study lacks with data and statistical findings.