

Review of: "Psychometric of the interpersonal communication skills scale: A confirmatory factor analysis"

M^aAngeles Cardero-Durán

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare. The subject of the article is interesting but needs minor changes. In the introduction you can see ideas exposed and sometimes not linked to each other. The authors should provide more data on the scale they want to validate (ICSS). The sample size seems small for the analysis being done. In the results, there is some doubt about the age range (22-61 years) and the average age (68 years). Can the author clarify this?

The subject of the article is interesting but needs minor changes.

In the introduction you can see ideas exposed and sometimes not linked to each other.

The authors should provide more data on the scale they want to validate (ICSS).

The sample size seems small for the analysis being done. The test-retest technique should be performed.

In the results, there is some doubt about the age range (22-61 years) and the average age (68 years). Can the author clarify this?