

Review of: "Determinants of Micro, Small and Medium Enterprises (MSMEs) Sustainable Development in Africa"

Rukhsana Kalim¹

¹ University of Management and Technology

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The topic of the article is good. From a publication point of view, there are some suggestions to get the draft improved.

Rigor is required in the introduction section. The literature review for the development of hypotheses is not substantial. In the last para of the Data Analysis Method, the description of the regression model is not suitable. The researchers should describe the functional form of the model first. Conclusions are not very impressive. Policy implications are missing. The authors should revise the paper in a proper format. Editing and proofreading are required.