Dear author,

I find your research of utmost importance in order to claim attention to professionals and the rest of the world population for this otherwise unregulated area.

However, in terms of the article per se, I believe there is still some work to do. Regarding form, I advise you to reformulate the first paragraphs and prefer short sentences with clear messages, instead of these long round phrases. In terms of content, I'm not sure if it is a good idea to share the commercial names of the products, since you can have legal problems with that and, maybe more importantly, you can miss some of them, eventually leading people to believe the remaining ones are safe. Also, I believe you should explain a little more the complications that can arise from the overdose of this hidden ingredients.

I hope my suggestions can help you. Congratulations!
