

Review of: "Evaluating Hydrologic, Geomorphic, and Vegetation Parameters to Assess Natural, Living, and Hardened Shorelines along the Northern Gulf of Mexico"

Rejani Chandran¹

¹ National Bureau of Fish Genetic Resources

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

The article is well written. The objective of study, methodology followed and results are well drafted. The discussion is very informative and ensures the relevance and importance of the study. Addition of a few more recent references on similar study on national or international scale will uplift the discussion even more. Drawing comparative statements with the observations of other researchers with the present study will also improve the quality of manuscript.

All the best!