Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

Title: The title is an interesting area to research.

Background to the Study: The motivation for the study was explicit. However, the literature were not recent. Therefore, one may not be able to state categorically which gap, in the literature, this study is try to fill. I will suggest the author should include recent literature in the introduction.

Methodology: The methodology can be improved. Since the author is looking at effect of Environmental Education on other attributes like Knowledge and Attitudes of respondents, I suggest that the author should consider a more probabilistic approach to robustly validate these findings. Take for instance, how would you resolve the problem of biasedness in selection? Take an endogenous regression approach to carry out an ex-facto analysis to be sure the result above is consistent.

Results and Discussion: The results were explicitly presented, and the discussion was brief and succinctly presented.

Conclusion and Recommendation. The conclusion and the recommendations were drawn from the results of the study and clearly were also clearly presented.

Decision: Upon effecting the minor corrections pointed out in this review, the paper should be accepted for publication.
