

Review of: "Human Rights Aspects in Infrastructure Projects in the President Regulation Number 120 Year 2022"

Ismail Suardi Wekke

Potential competing interests: No potential competing interests to declare.

This is a good start to a review of President Regulation 120/2022, but it needs more fleshing out to be comprehensive and insightful. Here are some suggestions for improvement:

Strengths:

- Focus on human rights: Highlighting the potential impact of the regulation on human rights is a crucial aspect of evaluating its effectiveness.
- Acknowledgement of concerns: Recognizing the need for careful implementation to avoid infringing on human rights demonstrates a balanced perspective.

Areas for further exploration:

- Specificity of potential benefits: Elaborate on how the regulation could potentially promote human rights. What specific aspects of the policy contribute to improved healthcare, education, environmental protection, or other human rights concerns?
- Potential risks and challenges: Discuss the potential human rights risks associated with the regulation, such as land acquisition, environmental degradation, or displacement of communities. How can these risks be mitigated?
- Implementation details: Go beyond simply mentioning the need for "facilitation of human rights." What specific safeguards or mechanisms should be in place to ensure human rights are upheld throughout the project lifecycle?
- Comparative analysis: If relevant, compare and contrast President Regulation 120/2022 with similar regulations or policies in other countries or regions. This provides context and highlights potential best practices.
- Recommendations: Conclude your review with clear and actionable recommendations for policymakers and stakeholders involved in implementing the regulation. How can they prioritize human rights and ensure ethical and equitable development?

Additional points:

- Consider incorporating evidence or data to support your claims, such as quotes from human rights experts or statistics on specific projects under the regulation.
- Maintain a neutral and objective tone while effectively conveying your concerns and recommendations.
- Ensure your review adheres to the specific format and style guidelines of the publication you are writing for.

By expanding on these points and refining your analysis, you can create a more insightful and impactful review of President Regulation 120/2022 and its potential implications for human rights in Indonesia.

I encourage you to revise your review accordingly and consider these suggestions to strengthen your evaluation of this important policy.