I wish to first congratulate the author for the topic. Its very crucial especially in these times. however, there are some minor errors which when corrected would make the work great. example, (The last line of the Introduction has...."I outlined the chapters of the thesis....) the author used some personal pronouns which are not too appropriate in academic writings. background of the study also an incomplete sentence in the middle of the paragraph. Chapter 2 is captioned Literature Review but the write up seem to be more of findings that review of related literature.
