

Open Peer Review on Qeios

Thymidine to Adenosine Transversion Abnormality

National Cancer Institute

Source

National Cancer Institute. Thymidine to Adenosine Transversion Abnormality. NCI Thesaurus. Code C45648.

A point mutation involving the substitution of Adenosine (a purine base) for Thymidine (a pyrimidine base) in a DNA sequence from eukaryotic or prokaryotic organisms. This abnormality can be either heritable or occur somatically.