I think it is interesting to see how males are less likely to admit they are going through mental problems, which is also something we see in different studies over time, and it seems still not solved even though so much time has passed and a lot of our daily norms has changed.

That is an interesting way of framing the topic. I appreciate your effort to fill such a methodological gap. The paper is also readable and clear as well.

My only comment is in the analysis; it seems that variance analysis and logistic regression are aiming to do the same thing, so if you want to shorten the paper, you may use only one and let go of the other one.

I liked the paper and the way the text was written! Good Job to the authors!
