The article as well as its abstract is very long and can be more concise. The article directly gets into saying objective 1.1 and 1.2 and so on. But nowhere mentions what were these objectives and why did the researchers even set these objectives. It is also unclear what is the methodology used for this paper. It seems like a review paper but does not clearly state how the literature, which is reviewed, was selected. Rather than being a critical piece of work, it is just a summary of some literature which doesn't currently bring in the conclusion which the authors set out to bring in the abstract of the paper.
