The author has comprehensively discussed the risks to women due to limited access to improved toilets in slum areas. However, there are ways to improve the paper by clearly describing the methods of collecting the literature and reducing some repetition of information in the text. A framework might be useful to help reduce the repeated explanation about indicators as well as factors causing these issues. Some terms need to be clarified such as what is the definition of dangerous toilet or dangerous open defecation site. And what is the difference between dangerous toilet location and lack of safety of the toilet? Does this mean security or physical danger?
